

NAME M-Arslan
Roll NO 21F-13SECO-03
Subject History of Eco Thought
code ECON 304
Assignment No 01
Date 29-1-24
Submit To

Semester 5th
Topic Sirr Ayub Islam

Overview of islamic thought
Ibn-Khaldon and the salient features of Muslims School of thoughts.

1.1

Overview:-

In this assignment
I'm going to explain the
overview of islamic thought past history work on economics.

In the past the whole history of mankind islam enjoys the unique position of being a religion of innovation.

At the time when Europe was sunk in the dark ages, the Muslims had achieved great progress in physics, chemistry, Biology, History, Geography and creditable work in the advancement of the Science of Economics. Moreover I will discuss the salient features of Muslim schools of thought.

1.2

Sources of Economic Thought of the Muslims:

There are three main sources of Economics thoughts of the Muslims. These names are given below.

1. Holy Quran, Hadith
2. Islamic literature produced after the Holy Quran.
3. Economics dealing books and articles.

Allama Ibn-Khuldun

[1332 to 1406 A.D]

Book Name:-

"Mugaddama Tarikh"

Introduction:-

His name was Abu zaid Abdul Rahman bin Muhammad bin Muhammad bin Khuldun. He was born in Tunis. Allama Ibn Khuldun wrote several books of which 'Mugaddama Tarikh' is the most outstanding. Allama Ibn Khuldun may be regarded as the pioneer muslim Economist.

DATE: _____

1.4 Work or Contribution of the topics:-

Ibn-Khaldun discussed many topics related to the economics. Some of them given below.

1. Definition of Economics
2. value
3. Division of Labour
4. Price System
5. Laws of Demand & Supply
6. Consumption
7. Production
8. Money & its Characteristics
9. Capital formation
10. Population growth
11. Public finance
12. Trade cycles
13. Interdependence of Price, labour and value.
14. Stages of Economics Development.
15. Rural & urban Economic system.

1.5 Explanation:-

He called this Subject 'Economics' instead of Political Economy. According to him, a rise in demand the level of state expenditure is essential to avoid economics slump and to maintain the peace of economic development. He believes Labour holds an important place in the theory of value. He says money has two functions like medium of exchange & store value.

1.5.1 Population & Economic Development

He wrote that in the early stage man leads a barbaric life on fertile land. Later Allah-given experience & power of invention man learns the art of agriculture, industry and crafts. He builds houses and by cooperation, division of labour man acquires technical skills. In this way cities came into existence.

(6)

1.5.2 State Responsibility

State is to provide economics security to its citizens. It's duty to make available resources for the employment of the people. And Government should not interfere in the market forces, but should allowed them to operate freely. Moreover it's have important role to manage an equal distribution of wealth.

(2)

Shah Wali ullah Dehlvi

[1703 to 1762]

He was born on 21th February 1703 in Delhi and he got his early education his father. He memorized the Quran by the age of seven.

"Hujjatulah Balighah"

Contribution:-

Division of Labor

Nature and function of Money.

Economics analysis of Riba

Public finance

Economic Equality

Rights of Laborers, artisans

peasants.

Taxation.

Syed Abu Al Mawdueli

[1903 to 1979]

He was born in Aurangabad (India)

25 Sep 1903. He got earlier

education from Madrasah Furganiyah and later undergraduate at

Darul Uloom Hyderabad. In the mid 1930s Mawdueli started to write on major political and cultural issues of Muslims. In 1918 he started his journalistic

Career.

(8)

DATE: _____

Contribution:-

1. Elimination of Riba
2. Land ownership & principles.
3. Partnership & business ethics
4. Zakat & Social Justice
5. Labour issues.
6. Insurance
7. price control mechanism.

Salient feature of Muslim school of Thought.

Outline:-

1. Ownership Right
2. Consumption of wealth
3. prohibition of interest
4. Halal & Haram
5. Zakat
6. welfare of Society
7. Resources allocation

(1)

In islam true ownership goes to Allah (). It is blessing from Allah and man ~~are~~^{have} responsibility to use resources carefully for their benefit, but they should also remember to share with other and avoid being greedy. It is a moral and ethical responsibility to promoting fairness and social harmony.

(2)

In islamic economic consumption of wealth refers to the spending of resources and money.

It is encouraged to consume wealth in a moderate and responsible manner. It's means that wealth is to be used for the welfare of society. It depend on ethical and moral principles.

(3)

The prohibition of interest, known as "Riba". It mean additional charges on money is not allowed. This is based on the belief that money without participating in real economic activities.

prohibition of interest is based on the islamic principle of justice and fairness.

(4)

Halal refers to actions, products services that are permissible and lawful according to islamic guidelines. it means engaging in business activities that are in line with islamic ethics and are not in violation of of Islamic laws. For example Islamic-banking, profit sharing arrangements. Haram refers to actions, products or services that are forbidden and lawful. For example dealing with interest-based transaction production of goods that are not permissible in Islam.

(5)

Zakat is a obligatory responsibility of Muslims. It is a process of redistribution of wealth. The payment of Zakat is obligatory on various type of assets, such as cash, gold, silver and agriculture products. The recipients of Zakat include poor, needy, travelers debtor, and other facing financial hardship. Zakat helps to stimulate economic growth, boost consumption reduce poverty, leading equitable and just society.

Date: _____

(6)

The welfare of Society is a central concern that focuses on the well-being, equitable treatment, social justice of individuals & families and communities. It promotes social welfare system, fair distribution of wealth and economic stability.

(7)

Islamic economics advocates for the equitable distribution of resources like wealth, opportunities are fairly distributed among all members of society. It is the promotion of economic activities that benefit the entire community. It aims to ensure long-term prosperity, use of resources while safeguarding the environment and natural resources for future generations.