Perspective Of Sociology

Structural functionalism

Conflict Perspective

Symbolic interactionist

What is Perspective?

Perspective has a Latin root meaning "look through" or "perceive," and all the meanings of perspective have something to do with looking.

What is Sociological perspective?

Studying the General in a particular way is known as Sociological perspective

Seeing the Strange in a familiar way is called Sociological perspective

Major Sociological perspective

- The functionalist perspective
- The conflict perspective
- The symbolic interactionist perspective

What is Functionalist Perspective?

The functionalist perspective sees society as a complex system whose parts work together to promote solidarity and stability.

This approach looks at society through a macro-level orientation, which is a broad focus on the social structures

It is introduced by Emile Durkheim

According to this approach

Society is made up of different parts (like a body)

When all parts Work Together, Society runs Smoothly

Each aspect of society is interdependent and contributes to society's stability and functioning as a whole.

This approach looks at both social structure and social functions

It is a sociological theory that attempts to explain why society functions the way it does by focussing on relationships between various social institutions that make up society.
(Government, Judiciary, Religion)

Examples of Functionalist Perspective

- Parsons said that a division of labour between husband and wife is essential for family stability and social order
- The husband/father performs the instrumental tasks that involve leadership and decision-making responsibilities in the home, and employment outside the home to provide income for the family
- The wife/mother is responsible for the expressive tasks, including housework, caring for the children and providing emotional support for the rest of the family

Examples#02

WE can understand the Road Transport organization which is also interlinked with Educational Institutes, Financial Institutes, Electricity, Civil Aviation, Police etc. if there is strike or any sort of disruption the employees of all departments will be equally affected and may paralyze the function.
