

News sources

Definition

News sources are the ways and routes through which a news channels gets news.

Sources of news

Main sources of newspapers and electronic media are:

News Agencies

News agencies is the organization of journalists established to supply news report to organizations in the newspapers ,magazines, radios and TV channels .They are also knows as wire service and news service. News agencies generally prepare hard news stories that can be used by other news organizations with little or no modification. They provide these articles in bulk electronically through the wire services, today they frequently use internet.

There are two types of agencies:

National news agencies

Associated Press of Pakistan APP, Pakistan Press International PPI ,United press pf Pakistan , Independent news Pakistan, news network international, south Asian news agency SANA, Online news international ONI

International news agencies

Reuters, Agency France press, ANSA Italy, Australian associated press, Canadian presenter, China news service, Iran news agency IRNA

Monitoring

Monitoring offers listen to the transmissions in different languages, translate them and make a report to it. For good monitoring a monitor must be proficient in the language he is monitoring. Senior monitors scrutinize the monitoring reports and finally the news items to be made a part of news bulletin are sent to the news editors.

TV

TV is the most important source of news . News are telecast several times in 24hours. The range of Tv is unlimited for understanding both by educated and illiterate people. The newspaper listen to the news telecast by Tv because the news telecast by tv also carry the authenticity and Tv is the excellent example of providing information mot only to newspapers but also to the audience.

Radio

Radio is the most effective medium of communication, it is also first in news and has several news bulletin within 24 hours even the subeditors and journalists monitor news from the major foreign radio networks. Newspaper benefit themselves from the radio news because they considered to be the latest. Important channels to be monitored are: BBC, VOA, VOG ,All India radio, Iran radio.

Correspondents & Reporters

These are the people who work in newspaper organizations they give news outside the city . All the newspapers make appointment to their reporters and correspondents in the various prominent and important place of country.

Correspondents

Those journalists who represent their work for newspaper from the abroad they are appointed in different cities and countries. The organization of the newspaper bifurcate the function and duties of their workers in specialized field or department.

Reporter

Those journalists who represent their work for newspaper inside their own country he is highly important person in the newspaper .he brings in news which is commodity in all newspaper deal. Without reporter there can be little business in news and without business there is no news .

Letter to editor

Letter to editor is also important news sources by which the editor gets news from the letter sent by general public . Through these letters , people express their point of views and suggestions on different level, national and international issues.

Press release

An official statement issued to newspapers giving information on a particular matter. A news release or press release statement is written or recorded communication directed at number of the news media for the purpose of announcing something, claimed as having news values. Sometimes news release sent for the purpose of announcing news conferences.

Means of sending a press release

Press note

Press note are issued by government whenever information in categorical term or unambiguous term is to provide to the general public. They contain information on specific matters in which the government's firm stand is to be explained. The press note are published by the newspapers in the manner they are received by them.

Handout

Handouts are issued for informing the people about the government and semi government policies. Its a document containing information which are circulated for general information. They contain information about the tours of ministers and appointments of higher officials.

Police headquarters

Police stations or headquarters are valuables source of information. Police keep a record of all criminals acts registered in police stations. So reporters remain in touch with police stations and collect all cases having news value.

Press conference

News gives full coverage to the press conference addressed by various personalities. The statement made at the start of the conference explaining precise reason for calling the press conference.

Hospitals

Another big source of information is the hospitals from where the news of case regarding accidents are known. A person can file a case against the culprit after getting information completely.

Newspapers and magazines

The newspapers and magazines both national and international containing good material or important information for the publication which can be beneficial source of news for the audience.

Press interviews

Interviews are secured to obtain information pertaining to different activities and fields. Men in the news are interviewed subject to the requirement of the newspaper for securing publicity material.

National and provincial assemblies

Nation and provincial assemblies are very important places for newsmen. Newspapers daily gives some space for assembly sessions.

Courts

There are two kinds of courts one is civil court and the other is criminal court, from where journalists or reporters can get information regarding famous cases about which the people want to know the detailed information of the case. So the reporters make it sure to visit the court where the procedure of the case is being followed. In this connection some newspapers have appointed special reporters regarding the court.

Institutions

In the county, there are several associations and auxiliary bodies which are engaged in several activities. Some of them are social welfare bodies, political parties and then professional associations. All are engaged in discharging special functions for which they are formed. So they release detailed information to the reporters of their activities and dispatch the same to newspapers.