- ii. Suggest some effective strategies for reading comprehension.
- iii. Read the following passage carefully and answer the following questions.

Trees give shade for the benefit of others and while themselves stand in the sun and endure the scorching heat, they produce fruits by which others make profit. The character of good men is like that of trees. What is the use of this perishable body, if no use of it is made for the benefit of mankind? Sandal wood, the more it is rubbed, the more scent does it yield; sugarcane, the more it is burnt, the more brightly does it shine. The men who are noble at heart do not lose their qualities even in losing their lives. What matters whether men praise them or not! What does it signify whether they die at this moment or their lives are prolonged? Happen what may, those who tread on the right path will not set food on any other. Life itself is unprofitable to a man who does not live for others. To live for the mere sake of living one's life is to live the life of dogs or crows. Those who lay down their lives for the sake of a noble cause, a friend or even for the sake of a stranger will assuredly dwell for ever in a world of bliss.

- a) The writer compares good men to trees. What is that quality which he finds in both?
- b) What examples has the writer given to show that people shine by making sacrifices? (any two)
- c) What lesson can man learn from trees?
- d) Write the various uses of trees.
- e) Do you agree or disagree with the views expressed in the paragraph? Give reasons.
