

method of social sciences.

- Interdisciplinary Nature:

Social sciences increasingly integrates insights from other fields like natural science and humanities.

(2) CITY OF GOD TO CITY OF MAN

(i) CITY OF GOD:

- Spiritual Focus:

The city of God represents the society based on spiritual values, faith and finding the divine truth.

- Middle Age Time Period:

During this time period, society was influenced by religion and religion played basic role in education, politics and social matters.

- Structure Of Society:

City of God characterized by a hierarchical structure where monarch curch and Mosque came at top.

(ii) CITY OF MAN:

• Secular Focus:

City of man represent the society based on individuality, human values and reasons. It focus on humanism.

• Renaissance Enlightenment Era:

The focus of society was shift on humanism, rationalism, science and intellectual curiosities.

• Structure Of Society:

Structure of society in city of man was based on freedom, human rights, growth of science and technology.

IMPLICATION:

There are several implication shifting from city of God to city of man:

- (1) change in education
- (2) Impact on Politics
- (3) Cultural Transformation

Change in Education:

The shift from city of God to City of man led to change in change in education with greater focus on science and technology than spirituality.

Impact On Politics:

City of man focus on individual rights and freedom influenced by democracy whereas in city of God political system was influenced by God's wish.

Cultural Transformation:

This shift from city of God to City of man has seen significantly change in culture, values, norms, Art, Music and Literature.