
✓ Q.1 – Short Questions (6×5 = 30 Marks)

(Note: Each answer is under 100 words.)

(a) What do you mean by business communication?

Business communication refers to the process of sharing information within and outside a business to achieve organizational goals. It includes verbal, non-verbal, and written communication like meetings, emails, reports, etc. Effective business communication ensures smooth workflow, builds relationships, reduces misunderstandings, and improves decision-making in an organization.

(b) How can technology help us in effective business communication?

Technology plays a vital role by making communication faster, easier, and more efficient. Tools like emails, video conferencing (Zoom, Skype), instant messaging, and collaborative platforms (Google Docs, Slack) allow quick exchange of ideas. It also helps in remote working, real-time updates, and global business expansion.

(c) What are the tools of effective business communication?

Tools include emails, memos, reports, business letters, presentations (PowerPoint), notice boards, social media platforms, video conferencing, and collaboration software. These tools help in delivering messages clearly, managing documents, sharing updates, and enhancing teamwork and organizational productivity.

(d) What is the importance of ethical concerns in business communication?

Ethics ensures honesty, transparency, and professionalism. Ethical communication builds trust among employees, clients, and stakeholders. It avoids deception, promotes respect, and maintains the company's reputation. Unethical practices like misinformation or manipulation can lead to legal issues and loss of business credibility.

(e) What is a formal business proposal?

A formal business proposal is a written document prepared to offer a product, service, or business idea to another party, usually for approval or investment. It includes the objective, benefits, execution plan, cost estimation, and expected outcomes. Its purpose is to persuade the reader to take a favorable decision.

(f) What kind of language we need to use in formal business letters?

Formal business letters require clear, polite, and professional language. The tone should be respectful and objective. Avoid slang, contractions, and emotional expressions. Use correct grammar, punctuation, and structure. Begin with formal greetings like “Dear Sir/Madam” and close with “Sincerely” or “Yours faithfully.”
