

Introduction to the Ideology of Pakistan

Definition and Significance of Ideology

The word 'ideology' is composed of two Greek words 'ideo' and 'logos'. It literally means 'the science or study of ideas'.

The ideology of any nation reflects the ideals and aspirations of its people, and religion and cultural shape, their thinking which binds them together. An ideology in the positive sense is a system of beliefs, values, ideas, convictions, institutions, goals and a body of knowledge which a people considers true, binding and practicable. In short 'ideology is the body of ideas'.

Pakistan Ideology: on which a Pakistanal Political, economic, social or religious system, Pakistan Ideology is based on the fact that the Muslims are a separate nation having their own culture, civilization, customs, literature, religion and way of life they have the cannot be merged in any other nation because their philosophy is based on the principles of Islam, it was founded on the "Two nation theory"

As the Muslims of India found it extremely difficult to live according to the Islamic principles, they left India and the whole Indian subcontinent was forced to demand a separate home land to safeguard their religious and religious identity.

Importance of Ideology in national life.

- 1- Ideology is a motivating force for a nation which is striving hard to bring stability and homogeneity to its nationhood.
 - 2- It provides the cement - binding force to a scattered groups in a society and brings them closer to each other on a common platform.
 - 3- Ideology impel their adherents to follow a joint line of action for the accomplishment of their goal.
 - 4- Ideology give shape to the revolutions and give birth to new cultures and civilisations.
 - 5- Ideology stress on their adherents to insist on the Realization of their ideals through total transformation of society.
 - 6- An ideology offers an interpretation of the past, and an explanation of the present and a vision of the future.
- Thus the ideology contains a set of proposals about human nature and society. These proposals are the basis for the accomplishment of a desired social system.

Pakistan Ideology is based on the fact that the Muslims are a separate nation, having their own culture, civilization, customs, literature, religion and way of life. They cannot be merged in any other nation because their philosophy is based on the principles of Islam. As the Muslims of India found it extremely difficult to live according to the Islamic principles of life in the United India, they were forced to demand a separate homeland to safeguard their national and religious identity.

Pakistan Ideology was founded on the Two-Nation Theory which meant that Hindus and Muslims were two different and separate nations whose understanding of life was quite different from each other. Sir Syed Ahmed Khan, the pioneer of the Two-Nation Theory, used the word 'Two-Nations' for Hindus and Muslims when convinced of the Hindu and Congress hatred and prejudice towards Muslims.

The Muslims were a nation who had always adhered to their national and religious identity strictly. The Muslims of the sub-continent did not want to see their image as a separate nation being tarnished and, therefore, strictly adhered to it. The British and the Hindus, despite great efforts, could not put a wedge into Muslim unity and love for their distinctive national character. The creation of Pakistan, as a sovereign state, owes much to this feeling of adherence by the Muslims of India to their national character.

As far as the meaning and definition of Pakistan Ideology is concerned, it basically means that Pakistan should be a state where the Muslims should have an opportunity to live according to their faith and creed based on Islamic principles. They should have all the resources at their disposal to promote Islamic culture and civilization as this was the sole purpose of demanding a separate homeland for Muslims.

Pakistan Ideology is the main pillar of Muslim solidarity and existence. The Muslims of the sub-continent had to face acute opposition of the British rulers and Hindus to give practical and physical shape to Pakistan Ideology. It was mainly due to the political acumen, wisdom and infallible leadership of the Quaid-e-Azam that Muslims were at last able to remove all impediments to accomplish their long cherished goal on 14th August, 1947.

AIMS AND OBJECTS OF THE ESTABLISHMENT OF PAKISTAN

Following factors can be named to be the objectives of the establishment of Pakistan.

✓ 1. ENFORCEMENT OF THE SOVEREIGNTY OF GOD ALMIGHTY

The Islamic State is built on the concept of the sovereignty of God Almighty. The prime objective of the demand for Pakistan was the establishment of a state where Almighty God's supremacy could be enforced and a government based on the Islamic principles could be instituted. The Quaid-e-Azam said "We did not demand Pakistan to acquire a piece of land, but we wanted a homeland where we could introduce Islamic principles".

2. ESTABLISHMENT OF ISLAMIC DEMOCRACY

Islam has given an ideal concept of democracy which is distinctively different from western concept. In Islamic democratic system every one is equal and no one enjoys a privileged position on the basis of his social status, colour or creed. Khalifa, Naib of God on earth, strictly follows the principles of Islam and Sunnah in the administration of state affairs. The Khalifa has dual accountability — answerable to the people and afterwards to God Almighty.

One of the main objectives of the freedom movement was that the Muslims of sub-continent wanted a country where the ideal system of Islamic democracy could be installed. The Muslims demanded Pakistan solely because they desired to live according to the principles of Islam. The Two-Nation Theory, which became the basis of the freedom movement for Pakistan also implied that the Muslims of sub-continent wanted to mould their lives according to the Islamic principles. It was because of this reason that the famous slogan, Pakistan ka matlab kiya La ilaha-illa-Allah, came on everybody's tongue. The Quaid-e-Azam said on 14th February, 1948 at Sibi "It is my firm belief that our salvation lies in following the golden rules of conduct as given by our great law-giver, the Prophet of Islam. Let us lay the foundations of our democratic system on Islamic ideals and principles. The Almighty has taught us that our decisions in the state affairs shall be guided by mutual consultation."

3. REVIVAL OF MUSLIM IMAGE AND IDENTITY

In the United India the Muslims were dominated by the Hindus in every social field. The Muslims were not in a position to compete with the Hindus because of their backwardness in education and politics. The Hindus had adopted a prejudicial attitude which blocked all channels to prosperity and progress for Muslims. The national image and identity of Muslims was in great jeopardy because of Hindu hatred and antagonism. If the British would have left the country as a United India, the Muslims would have fallen a humble prey to the perpetual Hindu domination and caprice. The demand for Pakistan was aimed at protecting the Muslims from Hindu domination and subjugation and also at the revival of Muslim identity and national image which was in disastrous jeopardy in the United India.

4. PROTECTION OF MUSLIM CULTURE & CIVILIZATION

Muslims were always a separate nation because of their distinctive cultural values and patterns. They were easily distinguishable from other nations on the basis of their social behaviour. The Muslim culture, civilization and literature were the living and proud symbols of identity as a separate and distinct nation. Although Muslims lived with Hindus and other nations for centuries, yet they proudly maintained their separate image. The Muslims and other nations of sub-continent remained distinct with an emphasis on their separateness.

Hindus always desired to crush Muslims as a nation and ultimately to merge them into Hindu society. Several attempts were made by Hindus to erase the Muslim culture and civilization. Hindi-Urdu controversy, Shuddi and Sanghtan movements are the glaring examples of the ignoble Hindu mentality. These attempts were aimed at the total elimination of Muslim culture in order to merge it into Hindu Culture and Nationalism.

One of the great objectives of the Pakistan movement was the protection of Muslim culture and to save it from Hindu domination. Muslims were not prepared to accept Hindu superiority over them. They were very much alive to their sense of supremacy as a separate and distinct nation. In fact this feeling of separateness was motivating element of Pakistan movement. Muslims wanted to give stability to their nationhood which was not possible in the United India under the Hindu hegemony. Muslims, therefore, decided to separate themselves from Hindus in order to safeguard their cultural values.

5. TWO-NATION THEORY

The entire freedom movement revolved around Two-Nation Theory which became the basis of demand for Pakistan. It meant that Muslims were a separate nation with their distinct culture, civilization, literature, history, religion and social values. Islam, the religion of Muslims, was based on the concept of Tauheed and, therefore, could not be assimilated in any other system or religion.

(Sir Syed Ahmed Khan was the first Muslim leader who propounded this theory.) In the beginning he was a staunch advocate of Hindu-Muslim unity. Later on while observing the prejudiced Hindu and Congress attitude toward Muslims, he came forward with his Two-Nation concept and declared that Muslims were a separate nation having their own culture and civilization.

The establishment of Pakistan further strengthened the Two-Nation concept which meant that Pakistan would be a country where Islamic principles would be followed. With the creation of Pakistan it became possible for Muslims to mould their lives according to the principles of Islam.

6. EMANCIPATION FROM THE PREJUDICIAL HINDU MAJORITY

Muslims came to India with conquering armies and permanently settled there in the Indian society, though maintaining their separate identity. The conversion of Hindus to Islam, in the later stages, caused the population of India to undergo a gradual change. With lapse of time Muslims came to form one-fourth of the total population of India.

Muslims belonged to all walks of life and understandably dominated in all spheres of social life during their rule. The Arab conquest was a blessing for sub-continent which attained maximum economic prosperity during Muslim rule. The Muslim domination aroused Hindu jealousy who had to live under Muslim hegemony in spite of their numerical majority.

(With the advent of the British rule Muslims lost their empire and political supremacy. The British extended favours to Hindus in view of their numerical strength in order to win their co-operation.) Hindus who were eagerly looking for an opportunity to settle their old score with the Muslims, were very happy on the turn of the events. They quickly snatched the golden opportunity offered to them by their new masters, and joined hands with the new rulers of India for the elimination of Muslims from the Indian society.

(The British and Hindus adopted a cruel policy of mass elimination against Muslims in order to erase them as a nation and subsequently merge them in Hindu nationalism. This policy created great difficulties for the Muslims in their social life.) (The Congress ministries further strengthened the Muslim suspicions) who were now fully convinced that there was no other way than separating themselves from Hindus in order to avoid total elimination. (The demand for Pakistan was based on this very feeling that the Muslims should be emancipated from the clutches of the eternal Hindu domination.)

7. ESTABLISHMENT OF A BALANCED ECONOMIC SYSTEM

The economic condition of Muslims, before partition, was deplorable. Hindus had monopolised commerce and trade. Muslims were not in a position to enter in the business and trade because of biased policy of government. After the 1857 War of Independence, the British Government had banned Muslims' entry into government service. All high civil and military positions were reserved for the Hindus. Muslims were considered eligible only for peon's and low ranking jobs. The Government had confiscated estates and properties of Muslims to punish them for their involvement in the War of Independence. The agricultural land was mostly owned by Hindus who fully exploited Muslim cultivators. The Government policy provided no shelter to Muslims for earning their sustenance in a respectable manner.

Muslims also lagged behind in the field of education. Hindus on the other hand had advanced in modern knowledge and were in a better position. The ignorance in education also played havoc with the economic condition of Muslims as they were not capable of getting any reasonable job.

These measures and biased policies of the government badly affected the condition of Muslims. Their future as a nation was destined to be ruined and they reached at the lowest ebb of their social and economic life in India. The inexorable economic exploitation of the Muslims at the hands of the British and Hindus, compelled them to think about a separate homeland for their economic security. They wanted a country where they could erect a social and economic system free of exploitation and which could pull them out of despair to show them a new horizon of life.

The major objective of the creation of Pakistan was the establishment of a balanced economic system based on the economic principles of Islam which could ensure a happy and stable economic life to every individual. The demand for Pakistan was motivated by the desire of Muslims to have a homeland of their own where everyone had enough opportunities to earn his sustenance and where every individual was self-sufficient in his economic matters.

The economic system of Islam is based on the balanced principles which do not permit an individual to keep wealth and economic resources more than one's needs and requirements. By the systems of Zakat and Ushr, extra wealth is extracted from the people and distributed amongst the poorer and more needy persons of the society to maintain economic balance. The Quaid-e-Azam, while inaugurating the State Bank of Pakistan on 1st July, 1948, said, "The bank symbolized the sovereignty of our people in the financial sphere. The Western economic system has created many problems for humanity. The Western economic system would not help us in setting up a workable economic order. We should evolve an economic system based on Islamic concept of justice and equality."

PAKISTAN IDEOLOGY AND ALLAMA IQBAL

Allama Iqbal was a great philosopher poet. He had acquired country-wide fame and recognition as a thinker. He received his education from the Government College, Lahore and later on went to England to pursue studies in Law. He got his Ph.D. in Philosophy from a German University. Allama Iqbal taught for few years at the Government College, Lahore. He had studied Islam deeply and had a profound liking for the Islamic principles and its tenets. He compared the Western culture with Islam and reached at the conclusion that mankind's emancipation and welfare lay in the adoption of Islam as a way of life.

Basically Allama Iqbal was a poet, teacher and thinker. However, he had to come in the political field in order to safeguard the interests of the Muslims of sub-continent. His entry into politics was greatly welcomed by Muslims where a trustworthy companion of the Quaid-e-Azam was badly needed.

Allama Iqbal proved as a great political leader and reliable companion of the Quaid-e-Azam. He awakened Muslims of sub-continent with his stirring verses to demand a separate homeland. He led the Muslims at every step and rendered great services in the accomplishment of Pakistan.

Allama Iqbal considered Islam as a complete code of life. He said that I am fully convinced that Muslims of India will ultimately have to establish a separate homeland as they cannot live with Hindus in the United India. He advised Muslims to understand their real position and shed away their mental confusion and narrow approach to life. He clarified the glorious image of the Muslim Ummah.

Allama Iqbal openly negated the concept of One Nation of India and emphasised on the separate and distinct national image of Muslims. He considered the establishment of Pakistan very essential and vital for the restoration of national and religious identity of Muslims. His poetry reflects his love for the nation and country. He produced a large number of poems which indicate his immense love for his homeland.

He said that Islam guides the mankind in every aspect of worldly life and, therefore, must be enforced in an Islamic State as a code of life. He based the foundation of homeland on the religion which later on became the ideology and basis of Pakistan. He said that Islam strengthens the life by infusing spiritual unity. He said that in Islam the Almighty 'God and Universe', the 'soul and matter' are the different parts of "One Whole". He did not believe in any system separated from religion and declared that religion and politics are not separated from each other in Islam.

Allama Iqbal firmly believed in the separate identity of Muslims as a 'Nation'. He said that I am fully convinced that the Muslims of India will ultimately have to establish a separate homeland as they cannot live with Hindus in the United India. He said that there would be no possibility of peace in the country unless and until Muslims are recognized as a separate nation, as they had their own cultural values which they must preserve and maintain. He declared "India is a continent of Human beings belonging to different languages and professing different religions. To base a constitution on the conception of homogeneous India is to prepare her for civil war. I, therefore, demand the formation of a consolidated Muslim State in the best interest of Muslims of India and Islam. The formation of a consolidated Muslim North-West Indian State appears to be the final destiny of the Muslims, at least of North-West India".

Allama Iqbal believed in the federal system and thought it as an ideal system for India in the prevailing conditions. He emphasised on introduction of the federal system to bring unity and solidarity to the country. He also believed that the federal system would promote unity amongst various factions of the society which would help in defence of the country.

"A unitary form of Government is inconceivable for India. The residuary powers must be left to the self-governing units. (I would never like the Muslims of India to agree on a system which negates the principles of a true Federation or fails to distinguish them as a separate political unit.) In this way only the Muslims of India will have maximum opportunities of development and in return would be able to render best services for the defence of the country against foreign invasion, be that invasion one of ideas or of Guns and bayonets." Two Nation Theory

(The Allahabad address of Allama Iqbal carries great importance and significance in the freedom struggle of the Muslims of India.) The Presidential Address at Allahabad in fact, moulded the destinies of Muslims of sub-continent and put their endeavours in right direction. Allama Iqbal's presidential address further clarified the Two-Nation Theory and demanded a separate homeland for Muslims. He said (I have been a staunch advocate of putting an end to religion's prejudices and distinctions from the country. But now I believe that the protection of separate national identity is in the best interests of both Hindus and Muslims.) He further said that "It was the prime duty of all civilized nations to show utmost regard and reverence for the religious principles, cultural and social values of other nations. Since the Muslims are a separate nation with their distinct cultural values and religious trends, and they want to have a system of their own liking, they should be allowed to live under such system considering their separate religious and cultural identity".

Allama Iqbal expressed Muslims' sentiments and ideas in true spirit by defining them as a separate nation with their distinct national image. (His presidential address washed away all the confusions from the Muslim minds and showed them new dimensions in their struggle for freedom. It later on enabled Muslim masses to determine their line of action and work out a clear cut and definite programme in order to accomplish their goal of a separate homeland.) The spirit which Allama Iqbal infused in Muslims by his presidential address developed into an ideological basis for the Pakistan movement. The famous Pakistan Resolution, passed on 23rd March, 1940 at Lahore was in fact based on Allama Iqbal's presidential address of Allahabad.

Allama Iqbal joined Muslim League and rendered services for the safeguard of Muslims interests. He was on the delegation which represented the Muslims in the Second and Third Round Table Conferences in 1931 and 1932. In these Conferences he very ably advocated the Muslim cause and vehemently opposed all such schemes which in any way jeopardized the Muslim interests.

(Allama Iqbal infused a spirit of nationalism amongst Muslims with his stirring and thought-provoking poetry. He preached an idea of nationalism based on Islamic unity and brotherhood.) He was of the opinion that the individual is not linked with the geographical boundaries but with a spiritual relationship. He negated the concept of territorial nationalism and brought to light its adverse affects and influence on Muslims. Against Territorial Nationalism

Allama Iqbal's writings, poetry and sayings kindled a new light, aroused a sense of respect, self-realization and determination in the Muslim masses. The new Muslim generation particularly responded vigorously to Allama Iqbal's call and took active part in the freedom struggle for the creation of Pakistan.
